Chatham County Police Enforce School Zone Speed Laws on First Day of School

Chatham County, GA (August 5, 2019) – The Chatham County Police Department wrote 22 citations and issued 23 warnings today as part of their effort to crack down on speeding in school zones.

Students in the Savannah-Chatham County Public Schools returned to class today, and Chatham County Police made sure officers were stationed in areas around school zones to enforce school zone speed laws. Today's efforts were concentrated around Hesse, Coastal Middle and Southwest Middle schools.

Chatham County police remind drivers to be cautious and vigilant around school zones, cross walks, and in other areas where children may be walking or riding their bicycles to school.
