Chatham County Police to Send Donations to N.C. in the Wake of Hurricane Florence

Chatham County, GA (September 19, 2018) – Members of the Chatham County Police Department will drive to hurricane-stricken North Carolina tomorrow to deliver supplies to first responders in the area.

Media can get pictures of the truck filled with supplies and interviews at Chatham County Police Department headquarters on Thursday, September 20 at 10 a.m. The headquarters building is located at the end of Police Memorial Drive, off of Chatham Parkway.

Knowing that some small police and fire agencies can be in need of supplies as response from a weather emergency stretches over many days, Chatham County Police officers collected food, water, and other basic supplies for first responders to use as they continue to work on Hurricane Florence recovery areas. The items were donated by Chatham County Police Department officers and employees, as well as private businesses.
